Hot, Wet, Steamy

I bet you think it's another southern weather report. Well it's not, but it could be. These also remind me of dying yarn. We're still working and planning toward having our own colors for the shop. Takes a lot of planning and practicing and scrutinizing to come up with exactly the look we want, but we are willing to go the distance. And going the distance is what it's all about: keeping a goal in mind and working towards that goal.

And for knitters, there can be a plethora of goals regarding yarn and needles and projects present, past and future. Hope we can add that special KNP yarn to your stash soon!

Yarn of the Month: Modern Cotton

Made in a palette of sophisticated neutrals and cheerful brights, Modern Cotton is a blend of Pima Cotton and Modal Rayon, beautifully twisted to showcase stitch patterns and a soft hand. Modern Cotton is a worsted weight that gets 5 stitches to an inch, and uses a US 7 (4.5 mm) needle.
